Mary D. Nichols
Chair
California Air Resources Board
1001 "I" Street
Sacramento, CA 95814

RE: Support the ARB Staff Recommendation for the Southern California Consolidation Project to be located at the Pomona site.

Dear Chairwoman Nichols and Board Members:

I write in strong support of the staff recommendation that the Air Resources Board's consolidation facilities should be located at the Pomona site. I am proud to represent the ARB's current vehicle and engine emissions testing and research facilities in El Monte. The work that is done at these facilities is incredibly important to maintaining a clean environment and healthy communities in our state.

I am also grateful for the economic benefit that these facilities bring to the San Gabriel Valley, and the many constituents of mine that work here. As you are aware, your internal polling concluded that 85% of the employees support the Pomona site location. I ask that you respect the overwhelming request of the employees and my constituents so that they are not further burdened by this relocation.

I applaud Cal Poly Pomona and the CSU System for their commitment to keeping ARB in LA County. I am glad that Cal Poly signed an MOU with the State for the acquisition of the former Lanterman Development Center that requires the University to "accommodate the real property needs" of ARB. This proposal will be beneficial for both ARB and Cal Poly by creating partnerships between state scientists, regulators, professors and students which will improve ARB's current work and create hands-on workforce development opportunities for the next generation of ARB scientists and staff.

Thank you for your careful consideration of your staff's recommendation.

Sincerely,

Grace F. Napolitano
Member of Congress

Subject: Why I oppose the Recommendation for Consolidation Project

Comment:

While it is clear that the ARB has made great strides in meeting the air quality needs of Californians, there is a huge risk of undermining these accomplishment by failing to recognize and maintain the appropriate mission priorities and goals. The ARB's current focus on relocating their facilities is one such problem, as allocating massive amounts of resources simply to gain "new buildings and more space" do not reflect the ARB's core mission of improving air quality and meeting mandated goals. I have reviewed the statements and documents made by the ARB to justify these expensive moves and find them problematic and unconvincing.

For example, one factor cited in this move is that the ARB will be better suited to building a world class research program that will benefit if situated close to an academic institution. This is absurd on its face, as the ARB is a government agency that has absolutely none of the rigorous academic and research checks and balances. Rather, I fear that the ARB would simply pick and chose science that supports its own political mandate to advance the internal goals of the ARB at the expense of real scientific debate.

I am a well published scientist with a Veterans Administration funded laboratory who is also associated with UCLA. When advocacy government (as clearly the ARB has become) begins to "associate" itself with science, it tends to ignore anything that goes against its best interest and bias research to further its now ends.

Thus, for these reasons, I would urge that the ARB recognize that it fills an important role as a government regulatory agency and NOT get entangled in trying to buff itself into a research institute.

That being said, it is also clear to me as an active researcher that the government can form collaborative interactions with the scientific and academic communities, but that these relationships should be maintained as desecrate and independent entities, such that one can either support or correct the other. Moving the ARB into an academic environment doesn't serve this purpose and blurs those lines between regulation and science.

Next, the funding of this move is questionable. I find the arguments that this move will have minimal financial impact on the State to be unpersuasive and self serving. At this time, the financial health of California is poor and the clearly the money to be spent on moving a perfectly good institution to another place could be better used elsewhere. Especially since the major rationale for this move is to burnish the academic credentials of the ARB as opposed to actually address the air quality needs of Californians.

Millions of dollars spent on moving to another facility while most Californians struggle with health care costs (ironically put at risk because of exposure to toxic air contaminants), housing, transportation and daily living expenses seems cruelly insensitive.

I would think that the ARB ought to worry less about putting its name on new buildings and rather maintain its focus on reducing air pollution, improving air and living quality and developing more common sense regulatory policies.

Finally, if the ARB has actually outgrown its space, then they would be better served to find cheaper alternatives than moving to Riverside or Pomona, especially since the only reason these areas seem to have been selected is to try to associate the ARB with an academic institution.

In summary, I would urge that the ARB take a closer look at what exactly it hopes to achieve by making these moves, why they chose the areas they did and make a stronger case for the use of State monies which is really outside the primary mission goals of the ARB. Those millions of dollars could be much better spent to upgrade current facilities, research could be outsourced, and the ARB could focus on its duty to improve air quality.

For these reasons, I would be strongly opposed to these moves and hope that the ARB reconsider.

Sincerely Yours

The Honorable Mary Nichols
California Air Resources Board
P.O. Box 2815
Sacramento, CA 95812

RE: Selection of Riverside for Relocation of California Air Resources Board Research Facility

Dear Chair Nichols and Members of the Board,

On behalf of the Greater Riverside Chambers of Commerce and its approximately 1,300 members representing more than 100,000 employees in Inland Southern California, I am writing to offer the full support of our business community in your consideration to relocate the facility of the California Air Resources Board (ARB), currently located in El Monte, to Riverside.

The close and productive partnership between the Chamber, the University of California, Riverside (UCR), the City of Riverside, the County of Riverside, and local state and federal elected leaders demonstrates our community's common purpose to create a synergistic environment between public and private enterprises. As such, we strongly believe the relocation of your facility to Riverside will create a mutually beneficial relationship for ARB and our community. Regionally, we have partnered with the County of San Bernardino to establish a two-county effort to bring ARB to our Riverside.

We are confident that ARB will quickly and effectively capitalize on the significant research being done at UCR. Specifically, we are extremely proud of the work conducted by the College of Engineering - Center for Environmental Research & Technology (CE-CERT) at UCR, and its director Matt Barth, to bring business and government together in collaboration to preserve our environmental strengths and stimulate economic growth. The work conducted by ARB at a proposed Riverside facility combined with the research and innovation of CE-CERT as well as UCR's community-oriented School of Medicine and the recently-established School of Public Policy will create a dynamic environment for air quality research, healthcare, public policy, and practical implementation.

Moreover, the pipeline of skilled graduates coming from UCR and other surrounding higher education institutions will provide a steadily growing stream of talented and well-trained employees to meet the facility's current and future workforce needs.

The cost of doing business is significantly more competitive in Riverside than elsewhere in Southern California and this extends to a more affordable cost of living for local employees coupled with an excellent quality of life. In addition, the significant economic growth in the region will offer a wide selection of employment opportunities, ranging from entry level to executive positions. We continuously strive to ensure that the local business climate and the level of coordination and partnership between business, government, and our education institutions are superb.

For these reasons and more, we strongly believe that Riverside is an ideal location for your facility. The Chamber is committed to making this happen and pledge our full support and assistance.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Respectfully,
Cindy Roth
President/CEO

On behalf of Corning Incorporated, I write to express my concern that the recently released California Air Resources Board "Staff Report: Analysis of Sites for the Southern California Consolidation Project" recommends the El Monte facility be relocated to California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (Cal Poly) instead of the University of California, Riverside (UCR). I have some concerns and think the ARB will be much better served by co-locating the facility with the UCR's Center for Environmental Research and Technology (CE-CERT).

I also want to stress the importance of being located near a research university. My company has several close collaborations with UCR researchers, including those at CE-CERT. This collaboration has been greatly enhanced due the fact we are located only two miles away from UCR and next to CE-CERT. Having CARB in Riverside would greatly facilitate collaborations among CARB, CE-CERT, Bourns and other Inland Southern California universities and companies.

Mary D. Nichols, Chair
California Air Resources Board
1001 I Street
Sacramento, CA 95814

RE: Southern California Consolidation Project's Site Location

Dear Chair Nichols:

I have been following the status of ARB's Southern California Consolidation Project closely as the results will impact not only my District, but Los Angeles County as well. I was pleased to read the ARB Staff Report Analysis of Sites for the Southern California Relocation Project document released February 11, 2016 recommended Cal Poly Pomona as the proposed location for ARB and I am writing to strongly urge the California Air Resources Board to adopt the staff's site recommendation for Pomona for multiple reasons.

First, LA County cannot afford the loss of approximately 400 jobs to Riverside County and to do so is unacceptable. Those skilled jobs, and the accompanying economic development impacts affect housing, retail, spousal jobs, etc., and need to remain in LA County. Figure 10 in your Staff Report clearly shows most of the El Monte ARB employees currently reside around LA and these employees are already engrained in LA County. Moving to Riverside would have a wider effect on the County beyond these 400 jobs.

Second, the State needs to be good stewards of its resources, and allowing ARB to relocate to Riverside would prove costly. As stated in the Staff Report, the recently revised Professional Engineers in California Government (PECG) Bargaining Unit 9 MOU with California requires ARB to pay relocation expenses to qualified employees, which effects "almost 80% of the [ARB] staff," at an estimated cost of "$1.0 million to about $7.3 million" to the State. Next, the Staff Report specifies that a move to Riverside would "likely involve relocation, resignation, or retirement of ARB employees," given the differences in driving commutes and long public transit commutes. Keeping ARB in LA County "would likely retain more of ARB's existing and highly trained workforce necessary to support ARB's ability to carry out its responsibilities" and "would be much less disruptive to ARB's operations because there would [be] less disruption to ARB employees." Relocating to Riverside would cause undue financial burdens and longer term concerns for ARB in maintaining their quality staff and relatedly the outstanding services ARB provides. The work that ARB does is important to the State, and we rely on the quality results that come out of your facilities; the loss of employees that would undoubtedly occur if ARB relocated to Riverside would be a detriment.

Lastly, organizations are only as good as the employees that work for them and I commend the ARB in considering your employees' views in the decision. As evidenced in the Staff Report, the ARB employees have made their preferences very clear, with "approximately 85% of the respondents prefer[ing] the Pomona site." They cited commute distance and time, the impact a move to Riverside would make on their personal lives and families, and the impact to their work. For the latter, the ability to complete field/outreach tasks within a day versus overnight, proximity to ports, railroads, refineries, etc. was a concern, in addition to "siting in Pomona would likely allow ARB to select from a larger candidate pool because of its proximity to the Los Angeles area."

I strongly encourage ARB to adopt the Staff Report recommendation; it makes economic and operational sense from multiple angles and it is consistent with the will of your employees. I look forward to hearing the results of the March 17th Board meeting and sincerely hope that ARB will remain in LA County. If you need additional information, please contact my office at 714-529-5502.

Sincerely,

LING LING CHANG

RE: Proposed Relocation of the Southern California ARB Facility -
SUPPORT

Dear Chairwoman Nichols:

On behalf of the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce, representing over 1,650 member organizations, I am writing to express our support for the site recommendation, relocating the ARB. As the voice of business, the Chamber promotes collaboration and business development in the region in order to build greater economic prosperity and quality of life for all Los Angeles residents. Given our mission, I was pleased to read the California Air Resources Board's (ARB) recent report "Analysis of Sites for the Southern California Relocation Project," which recommends relocation of the ARB's El Monte facilities to the campus of California State Polytechnic University, Pomona.

The Chamber knows that retaining talented staff is key to organizational success, and we commend the ARB for commissioning this report to assess how relocation would impact current employees. As the staff report found, employees strongly favor the Cal Poly Pomona site, with "approximately 85% of the respondents prefer[ing] the Pomona site" over alternative options. The staff report specifies that moving the facility to Riverside County would "likely involve relocation, resignation, or retirement of ARB employees," given the sharp differences in driving and public transit commutes. By comparison, maintaining the facility in Los Angeles County would "likely retain more of ARB's existing and highly trained workforce [who are] necessary to support ARB's ability to carry out its responsibilities" and "would be much less disruptive to ARB's operations."

Further, the staff report also concluded that moving the facility to Pomona would "allow ARB to select from a larger candidate pool because of its proximity to the Los Angeles area." We understand the importance of the work that ARB does and believe that retaining the facility in Los Angeles County will be optimal for the ARB by helping to attract and retain talented staff.

The Los Angeles region also stands to benefit from maintaining the southern California facility in Los Angeles County, as the ARB functions as a key employer in our local economy. We cannot afford to lose approximately 400 jobs to our neighbors in Riverside County. Those high-skilled, high-paying jobs—and the economic development components that accompany these jobs, such as employee housing, retail, spousal jobs, etc.—should remain in Los Angeles.

Furthermore, the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce is committed to promoting education and workforce development opportunities that will prepare our young people for 21st century jobs. We are pleased to see that Cal Poly Pomona and the CSU System are eager to collaborate with ARB, and have proposed to develop new state-of-the-art facilities on their campus property. This campus co-location will not only retain hundreds of jobs in our County, but will offer additional educational benefits and training opportunities for Cal Poly students and faculty, as well as for our local community. As the only polytechnic university in southern California, Cal Poly Pomona is uniquely positioned to prepare students for critically-needed scientific and professional careers through its superior teaching, scholarly activity, and high-quality academic programs and experiential learning opportunities. In addition, Cal Poly Pomona's status as a federally defined Hispanic-Serving Institute (HSI) enables it to meet our current and projected workforce needs with diverse and highly-skilled job candidates. The Chamber greatly supports how co-location of the ARB facility on the Cal Poly Pomona campus will create collaborative educational and training opportunities that will have a positive impact on our entire community.

For these reasons, the Los Angeles Area Chamber of Commerce strongly encourages ARB to adopt the staff report's recommendation to relocate the El Monte facility to the Cal Poly Pomona campus. This move makes economic and operational sense from multiple angles, is consistent with the will of your employees, and creates additional educational and training opportunities for our future workforce. I look forward to hearing the results of the March 17th Board meeting and sincerely hope I will soon have the opportunity to announce to business community that ARB will be remaining in Los Angeles County. Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,
Gary Toebben
President & CEO

Cost too much money which may or may not be appropriated by the legislature. As a tax payer I object.

I am writing on behalf of Riverside County in asking that your Board reconsider the staff recommendation and consolidate your Southern California operations in the City of Riverside. I have had the pleasure of representing the Riverside region for more than a quarter of a century, first as a member of the Riverside City Council and now as a member of the Board of Supervisors. Over the years, I have taken significant pride in the partnership between the Air Resources Board (ARB) and our community. Relocating to Riverside is the next logical step in that relationship.

RE: Southern California Consolidation Project's Site Location

Chair Nichols:

Please accept this letter as my strongest recommendation for ARB's Southern California Consolidation Project to be relocated within the City of Pomona. As an advocate for our ARB employee's families in Covina and the greater San Gabriel Valley moving these 400 employees and their families 40-50 more miles away would not only cause a negative economic effect to our region, but would place stress between families to uproot their lives. Less time with family, more time in their cars and in traffic, and possible lower morale.

As much as 400 jobs will be lost within the San Gabriel Valley to Riverside County which will directly affected the vast majority of those who live in the region and within Covina. With skilled labor force along with the economic development components around 400 jobs such as housing, retail, spousal jobs need to remain in LA County.

For these reasons, I strongly encourage ARB to adopt the Staff Report recommendation; it makes economic and operational sense from multiple angles and it is consistent with the will of your employees. I look forward to hearing the results of the March 17th Board meeting and sincerely hope that ARB will remain in LA County.

Jorge Marquez
