In one of the outreach programs it was discussed that CARB like to have traction at national level. But, the way it is being worked at this point, we are replacing equipment in California area (e.g. trucks, yard equipment, locomotives etc) and they are up for grabs for states around and, as we all know, polution tend to circulate with air movement.

I believe CARB would have explicitly put rules where teh old equipment goes to prevent vendors receive subsidies and then sell or move equipment to next door state
